About FRANCIS DRAKE

FRANCIS DRAKE is an expert and consultant in the digital age when it comes to finding the right partners for companies and public clients from the flood of advertising agencies.

With our experience of almost 50 years in the communications industry and together with a team of experienced competence partners, we work with proven, systematic processes. And we do so across all sectors and communication disciplines.

In the process, all requirements, challenges, objectives and framework conditions are converted into service descriptions that only suitable agency partners can address in a targeted manner and motivate for a serious application.

But we are much more than just a pitch consultant: Our comprehensive consulting services answer and solve - in addition to questions about agency contracts and agency remuneration - all questions that clients and customers encounter in their dealings and day-to-day business with agencies.
